MEDAL OF HONOR MEN

Recognition of Acts of Bravery During the War.

Recommendations by the Military Board and the Causes Leading to Preference.

The army board of medals and medals has made its report in regard to personal acts of bravery during the Spanish war. Many cases of bravery and unquestioned courage in battle were presented, but the application of the rules laid down for the guidance of the board in awarding medals of honor constrained it to limit its recommendations, at this time, to the following cases:

John W. Heard, captain, 3d Cavalry, for distinguished gallantry in action at the mouth of the Manzanillo river, west of Bahia Honda, Cuba, July 23, 1898; after two men had been shot down by Spaniards while transmitting orders to the engine room on board the steamship Wanderer, the ship having become disabled, Captain Heard took the position held by them and personally transmitted orders, remaining at his post until the ship was out of danger; while serving as first lieutenant, 2d Cavalry.

Ira C. Welborn, second lieutenant, 9th Infantry, for distinguished bravery in battle, El Cane, Cuba, July 1, 1898, in rescuing, with the voluntary aid of others, wounded from in front of the lines, under heavy fire of the enemy, while serving as private, Company C, 17th Infantry.

Benjamin F. Hardaway, first lieutenant, 17th Infantry, for distinguished bravery in battle, El Cane, Cuba, July 1, 1898, in rescuing, with the voluntary aid of others, wounded from in front of the lines, under heavy fire of the enemy, while serving as private, Company C, 17th Infantry.

Charles D. Roberts, second lieutenant, 17th Infantry, for distinguished bravery in battle, El Cane, Cuba, July 1, 1898, in assisting in rescuing wounded from in front of the lines, under heavy fire of the enemy, while serving as private, Company C, 17th Infantry.

Gyuses G. Buzzard, sergeant, Company C, 17th Infantry, for distinguished bravery in battle, El Cane, Cuba, July 1, 1898, in assisting in rescuing wounded from in front of the lines, under heavy fire of the enemy, while serving as corporal, Company C, 17th Infantry.

Oscar Brooks, private, Company C, 17th Infantry, for distinguished bravery in battle, El Cane, Cuba, July 1, 1898, in assisting in rescuing wounded from in front of the lines, under heavy fire of the enemy, while serving as private, Company C, 17th Infantry.

George Burg, private, Company C, 17th Infantry, do.

Thomas J. Graves, wagoner, Company C, 17th Infantry, for distinguished bravery in battle, El Cane, Cuba, July 1, 1898, in assisting in rescuing wounded from in front of the lines, under heavy fire of the enemy, while serving as private, Company C, 17th Infantry.

Andrew J. Cummins, out of service, for distinguished bravery in battle, Santiago, Cuba, July 1, 1898, in assisting in rescuing wounded from in front of the lines, under heavy fire of the enemy, while serving as private, Company F, 10th Infantry.

Charles P. Cantrell, private, Company L, 10th Infantry, for distinguished bravery in battle, Santiago, Cuba, July 1, 1898, in assisting in rescuing wounded from in front of the lines, under heavy fire of the enemy, while serving as private, Company F, 10th Infantry.

William Keller, out of service, for distinguished bravery in battle, Santiago, Cuba, July 1, 1898, in assisting in rescuing wounded from in front of the lines, under heavy fire of the enemy, while serving as private, Company F, 10th Infantry.

James J. Nash, private, Company F, 10th Infantry, for distinguished bravery in battle, Santiago, Cuba, July 1, 1898, in assisting in rescuing wounded from in front of the lines, under heavy fire of the enemy, while serving as private, Company F, 10th Infantry.

Alfred Poland, sergeant, Company F, 10th Infantry, for distinguished bravery in battle, Santiago, Cuba, July 1, 1898, in assisting in rescuing wounded from in front of the lines, under heavy fire of the enemy, while serving as private, Company F, 10th Infantry.

Thomas M. Doherty, corporal, Company H, 21st Infantry, for distinguished bravery in battle, Santiago, Cuba, July 1, 1898, in assisting in rescuing wounded from in front of the lines, under heavy fire of the enemy, while serving as private, Company H, 21st Infantry.

John F. De Swan, private, Company H, 21st Infantry, for distinguished bravery in battle, Santiago, Cuba, July 1, 1898, in assisting in rescuing wounded from in front of the lines, under heavy fire of the enemy, while serving as private, Company H, 21st Infantry.

Herman Plisterer, musician, Company H, 21st Infantry, for distinguished bravery in battle, Santiago, Cuba, July 1, 1898, in assisting in rescuing wounded from in front of the lines, under heavy fire of the enemy, while serving as private, Company H, 21st Infantry.

Alexander M. Quinn, sergeant, Company A, 13th Infantry, for distinguished bravery in battle, Santiago, Cuba, July 1, 1898, in rescuing wounded from in front of the lines, under heavy fire of the enemy, while serving as corporal, Company A, 13th Infantry.

In addition to the medals, 189 certificates of merit were given to soldiers for gallant conduct.

WILL MEET HERE IN FUTURE.

Sons of the Revolution Make Washington Headquarters.

The National Society of the Sons of the Revolution, which has been in session in Denver, adjourned yesterday to meet at Washington, April 19, 1902.

President John Lee Carroll of Maryland occupied the chair. A resolution was adopted endorsing the plan to erect a Lafayette monument in Paris, and a committee, with Walter Gilman Page of Massachusetts as chairman, was appointed to cooperate with the Lafayette memorial committee. Nearly all the old officers were re-elected, the list being as follows:

General president, Garret Dorset Waterford, New Jersey; second vice president, Pope Barrow, Georgia; to succeed John Schriver, Georgia; secretary, James Mortimer Montgomery, New York; assistant general secretary, William Hall Harris, Maryland; treasurer, Richard Abbott Caldwell, Pennsylvania; assistant treasurer, Henry Cadie, Missouri; chaplain, Right Rev. Henry Benjamin Whipple, D. D., LL. D., of the general registrar, Francis Ellingwood Abbott, Massachusetts; historian, Henry Wallbridge Dudley, Illinois; to succeed William J. Bryan, Washington, D. C.

It was decided to hold all future meetings of the National Society at Washington.

CELEBRATION IN BOSTON.

The Sons of the Revolution observed patriots' day in Boston yesterday by the unveiling of a tablet placed upon the tomb in King's Chapel burying grounds, which marks the resting place of William Dawes, whose during midnight ride of April 18-19, 1776, was one of this same character and accomplished the same purpose as the ride of Paul Revere. The ceremony was concluded by a banquet at the Hotel Vendome.

The ceremony was concluded by a banquet at the Hotel Vendome.

SONS OF AMERICAN REVOLUTION.

A dispatch from Detroit, Mich., last night says: Arrangements for the ninth annual congress of the Sons of the American Revolution are rapidly nearing completion. The three days' sessions open Sunday, April 23, with a religious service. Monday and Tuesday will be devoted to business sessions. Thursday night, April 26, a banquet will be the banquet on Tuesday evening.

Among those who have definitely promised to be present and respond to toasts are Secretary of War Aigis General Wesley R. Merritt, General Joseph Wheeler, Surgeon General George S. Sternberg, General Horatio King, John D. Wright, Franklin Murphy and Senator Chauncey M. Depue.

Admiral Schley and Captain Robley Evans have been invited to attend, and will be present if possible. A special train will leave New York April 20 with the New Jersey, New York and Connecticut delegates.

SECRET SERVICE AGENTS' CAPTURE.

Another Arrest Made in Philadelphia Last Night.

Taylor and Bredell, who were arrested yesterday in Philadelphia, charged with being the counterfeiters of the celebrated $100 Monroe note (silver certificate), were originally engravers in the Methodist book concern in Philadelphia. Some time ago they resigned their positions in this concern and opened an engraving establishment of their own. It was in this place that they were arrested yesterday. Not only was the Monroe plate found in their place, but a new plate to counterfeit a $50 note was found.

Chief Wilkie has been at work unrelentingly for more than a year, and at the time of the arrests of Taylor and Bredell in Philadelphia and Jacobs and Kendig in Lancaster twelve detectives were at work under him. Jacobs and Kendig said that the plates found in their possession for the counterfeit of internal revenue stamps had been made by Taylor and Bredell. Four tons of paper for making counterfeit revenue stamps were confiscated. The firm of Jacobs and Kendig is one of the wealthiest in Lancaster. The stock of goods on hand in their factory was worth at least $40,000, and they had $25,000 in cash in two Lancaster banks.

The sensational arrest of the counterfeiters was further complicated last night by the arrest in Philadelphia of Harvey K. Newitt, a former assistant United States attorney in that city. He is charged with having given two bribes of $500 each to Detective McManus. The money is said to have been paid to Newitt by Kendig, who was suspected for a long time that his place was under suspicion. He gave the money to Newitt to pay to McManus. The latter could not be bribed and turned the money over to Chief Wilkie.

All of the men arrested are in jail, heavy bonds being required. None of the men has so far been able to give these bonds, and it is not likely that they will be able to do so.

NEW SENATOR FROM FLORIDA.

James P. Tallaferra Elected to Succeed Mr. Pasco.

The first joint ballot for United States senator in the Florida legislature yesterday resulted in the election of Mr. James P. Tallaferra. He received 59 votes, Pasco 30 and Call 6-51 votes being requisite for an election.

Mr. Tallaferra, the newly elected senator, was born at Orange Court House, in the state of Virginia, September 30, 1847. He spent most of his boyhood days. He served gallantly as a private in the Confederate army. After the war he moved to Jacksonville, Fla., and engaged in the logging and sawmill business. In 1871 he married Miss Mary Hardy of Norfolk, and to them have been born two daughters.

Mr. Tallaferra has been and is now connected with a number of large commercial enterprises. He is president of the First National Bank of Tampa and vice president of the leading wholesale grocery house in Florida. He has never been a candidate for office before. He has been an untiring worker in the democratic ranks. He served for three years as chairman of the state democratic executive committee. He has always been considered one of the ablest leaders in Florida. He is now a member of the state board of health.

WORKINGMEN'S $1 BANQUET

W. J. Bryan the Principal Speaker of the Occasion.

Mayor Jones, Father McGlynn, Mrs. Stetson, N. O. Nelson and W. T. Emmet Also Speakers.

A dispatch from New York last night says: The second of the so-called "one-dollar" Jefferson dinners, that under the auspices of the workingmen, was held last night at the Grand Central Palace. About 1,500 men and women were present, but the dinner was not so largely attended as the one given by the Chicago platform democrats in the same place last Saturday night.

A striking difference between these dinners was the seating of the guests of honor tonight on the platform, where they could be plainly seen by everybody in the hall. The speakers, seated on a large canvas, was the following inscription: "A system of political economy will yet dawn which will perform as well as promise, which will rain the riches of nature into the laps of the starving people."

Col. William J. Bryan entered the hall soon after 7 o'clock and was received with great applause.

There were few persons in evening dress, and men in well-worn suits of various styles were numerous. The women, who were about equal in number to the men, sat at the tables in the main floor.

John Brisson Walker presided.

SPEAKERS AND TOASTS.

The speakers and toasts were as follows: Mayor S. M. Jones of Toledo, "Municipal Ownership of Public Franchises." Charlotte Perkins Stetson, "What a Just Economic System Would Do for Women." Rev. Edward McGlynn, "The Poes Which Beget Movements in the Interest of the People." N. O. Nelson, "Practical Adjustment of Social Problems." William T. Emmet, "All Government Derives Its Powers From the Consent of the Governed." William Jennings Bryan, "Thomas Jefferson."

The menu was of the simplest. It comprised: Vegetable soup, haddock, roast beef, roast turkey, cranberry sauce, pickles, ice cream, cakes and coffee.

HONOR TO DEAD HEROES.

In the course of the dinner Chairman Walker arose and asked all to drink to the memory of "those heroes who on April 19, one hundred and twenty-four years ago, at the battle of Lexington, gave up their lives for that liberty, the danger to which is the occasion for your gathering here tonight." All arose and drank, while the band played "The Star-Spangled Banner."

An oil painting of Jefferson was placed before the table of the guests of honor, and Chairman Walker began the speaking.

"Peace Hath Her Victories," Mr. Bryan said in part: "Jefferson was a man of ideas. We are applying his ideas today to the questions which arise. They were not all applied in his day. They have not all been applied since his day."

"Sometimes people think that only on the battlefield can a man show his patriotism. I thank God that I live in a land where peace hath her victories as well as war. I glory that we live in a land where every day presents an opportunity for man to show his love of country, and I thank God that we live in this generation where the grandest principles are presented that have ever been presented to any generation since the history of man began."

A distinguished citizen of the nation spoke not only of the strenuous life and applied his idea to a policy that gives this nation an opportunity to go forth with musket and with cannon and carry its ideas by force to other nations. I thank God that peace in this country gives an opportunity for all the strenuous life of the people.

If we but begin to apply to our daily conditions the principles which we have adopted, theories which we will not contradict, there is room enough for work for several generations yet to come. Thomas Jefferson believed in the people, and he was the first great believer in the people.

"I appreciate the fears expressed by our toastmasters, no one will deny the evil tendencies of the times; no one will deny that there are abuses so entrenched in government that it is difficult to dislodge them. But we believe in the people, so we can believe in the people."

MAJOR JONES ON CITY OWNERSHIP.

Mayor Jones said in his address: "The impression is given to our children that as the thing called government is perfected, there is, therefore, no responsibility upon the boy beyond the mere perfunctory work of voting on election day, of proclaiming in season and out of season that the best government on earth, and of constantly repeating before the minds of our fellow-men the assertion that we 'can lick everybody.' If we have the best government on earth, which I do not question, it does not necessarily follow that even that may not be improved. If we can 'lick everybody,' even that is not of necessity the highest ideal toward which a nation may strive."

"In every city in this or any other country that has adopted public ownership of the electric-hor day and the recognition of the franchise system will both disappear together. Every city that has adopted public ownership of public utilities has shortened the hours of labor, increased the wages of the men and improved the quality of service. If the workingmen and masses are in economic slavery, in chains today, it is because they will not because they are being economic slavery there has been party slavery, and in every succeeding election the workingmen of the country have been the dupes of the schemers who sought to serve only their own ends."

CHEERS FOR THE "PEOPLE."

"Let the platform that commands the votes of the workingmen and reform forces be definite and positive for those things that we know are essential to liberty, such as equal opportunities for all, the abolition of the contract system, the substitution of the eight-hour day and the recognition of organized labor in all skilled departments; and let us repudiate any platform that does not involve every one of these principles for the people."

When Mayor Jones closed one called for three cheers for the mayor. They were given. Then some one called for three cheers for the people.

"Yes," shouted Mayor Jones, leaping to his feet and waving his hands, "cheer not for me; cheer for the people." This brought out great applause.

JAPANESE TOBACCO MONOPOLY.

At the Japanese legation it is explained that the tobacco decree recently issued by the Japanese government can have no ill effect on the American trade. Some time ago the Japanese government adopted the plan in vogue in some European countries of monopolizing the leaf tobacco industry, making it a source of government income. This was confined to the Japanese product of leaf tobacco, the government buying it from the grower and selling it to the manufacturer. Recently this monopoly has been extended to all leaf tobacco, of foreign as well as Japanese production, so that the American and other import of foreign tobacco is taken by the government and sold to the manufacturers as they may desire it. This, however, does not apply to any kind of manufactured tobacco, cigars or cigarettes, although the duty on these goods was slightly increased by the last diet. The duty is now about 100 per cent ad valorem, which is said to be far below the average American duty on manufactured tobaccos. The Japanese government's action as to leaf tobacco does not go into effect until after the new treaty between the United States and Japan becomes operative, viz., July 17 next. The Japanese minister says the Japanese use of American leaf tobacco has been increasing steadily of late, and that this will go on, as the recent action is not designed to restrict or limit the foreign import, but merely to allow the government to enjoy the profit on an article of luxury.
